6. GUEST(S)

A. Brian Rogers, UAF Chancellor

Chancellor Rogers is excited about the 2011 Summer Activities. We have more than 20 summer programs that bring high school and junior high school students to the campus, getting them interested and excited about attending UAF.

There will be a lot of construction going on this summer causing some disruptions. The good news is that we are addressing some long standing facilities needs this summer. The Life Sciences, the Greenhouse, the Energy Technology Facility all under construction and off campus, the R/V Sikuliaq, construction is moving very quickly. And over the next decade we will have a significant amount of deferred maintenance taking place on the West Ridge. We are also moving forward with the permitting on the combined heat and power plant.

The challenges in the coming year will be the impact of the healthcare costs for our employees beginning July 1st. How do we moderate the healthcare cost inflation so that we don't continually shift the cost to the employee? The second challenge will be compensation in general; with the legislature now funding 50% instead of 60% we will have to raise revenue or reallocate. The third challenge is deferred maintenance; the president wants to proceed with issuing bonds for deferred maintenance; the challenge with that is that we would have to make internal cuts to pay for the debt service on those bonds.

The good news is that our enrollment for the fall is up. We are doing the outdoor education center with ice climbing and a snowboard training park and other activities, trying to create some buzz that also draws students. We are looking at privately funded new student housing. We are working on a pilot project with the Cold Climate Research Center to build student housing on a piece of permafrost for research.

The floor was opened for questions and healthcare cost issues was discussed at length. There were sugge

Pat does not foresee any additional pullbacks this fiscal year. The major pullback last year fixed some of our huge structural deficits and the things we had been dealing with for years. We are now in a solid fiscal position.

Pat answered other questions submitted by the Staff Council.

EMR held one meeting since our last Staff Council meeting to discuss the question of whether or not the Staff Council membership want to allow non UAF staff members to serve as president or vice president. We would like to put the question to the council; do we want to clarify the constitution or by-laws to specify that Statewide OIT Staff Council members cannot serve as president or vice-president of Staff Council. Discussion followed. An informal vote was taken after much discussion and the decision was 19 votes to clarify the by-laws stating OIT Staff Council members cannot serve as president or vice-president and 5 votes opposed.

D. Advocacy Committee, Jodi Baxter
